ENGLISH AND CHINESE DIOTIONARY

PRONUNCIATION.

Press Ollice, Hongkong.

An Anglo Chinese Dictionary, by the Rev

HOR scope and practical service this Work stands apprivalled. All the new words which the Chinese bave of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature.

Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have

The scope of the work is so great, and its heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

utilitarian purposes so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chiness. In this respect the work will be found

-indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully, with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

The most manifest superintended by resident Europeans. AMBOAT defect probably in our administrative system is the fact that there is not a district in the empire the exact position and resources of which are known to us. The very first condition of successful administration is thus wanting. In Oriesa, the other duy, a narrow export of 30,000 tone of rice from a province containing 3.000,000 of people growing nothing but rice, was held to be conclusive proof that large food reserves existed in the province, while a very brief statistical inquiry would have shown that so narrow an export in the face of the high prices that had been ruling for years, proved that the province was normally treading on the verge of famine. There are no satisfactory statistics at present in India upon any subject but its trade, while such as do exist are buried in the recesses of the Secretariats, or in the Appendices to Parliamentary Returns, out of reach of the Harness and Saddlery repaired and renovated, formation wanted, the sources from which it is a stock of London-made being always on hand. to be obtained, and the shape in which it requires to be presented, furnishes the Editor, as he himself believes, with special qualifications for the task he has undertaken. He proposes to meet a want which he has felt keenly himself, and believes that his new journal will be found to be indispensable by every merchant, journalist, and civilian in the country, within a very low months of its publication. In the Times of India he has dealt for many years imperfectly with the great questions t any person requiring his services, on receiving which the Indian Economist will now be specially devoted. Imperial and local taxation, the Indian debt, currency reforms, weights and measures the land settlements of the country, our financia relations with England, railway extension and public works; banking commerce, and exchange, and the course of the Legislature and of the Executive Governments thereon, will form the leading subjects of discussion in the new Journal.
